3D Album Commercial Suite 3.33

Commercial Album was followed by the Commercial Single 7 EP, which was issued by PRE Records in the UK. The EP included Shut Up Shut Up and And I Was Alone, which was later replaced with Without You. The 7" lasted just one week in the UK (where the Residents' first release, The First Seven Minutes of Peace had been very successful in 1979) but managed to chart for five weeks on the Billboard Hot 100, reaching a peak at #114. In addition, the B-side This Is A Man's Man's Man's World was issued as a single in some European countries, for the first time. In the UK this single was released by the Record Label Sounds Music [3]. Commercial Album was also the first of the Residents' releases to be released in a standard jewel case, as opposed to the EP's fold-out gatefold sleeve. The first of these was the UK issue, which lasted for twelve weeks on the Top 200 Albums Chart and reached a peak of #46. The first North American issue was released by RTC in late 1980.

The LP was also released in Australia and New Zealand by Missing Link Records (where it reached a peak of #23). Unlike in the UK, where the album hadn't charted anywhere outside the Top 200 for the previous six months, the Australian and New Zealand release of Commercial Album and its EPs were no different, and the album peaked at #34 on the album charts there. Also, unlike in the UK, where the album failed to chart at all, the two EPs charted on the national Australian Top 100, peaking at #60 for the AEP and at #24 for the BEP. The first single, The Sleeper, would not appear until this issue was already in the charts. 5ec8ef588b
