Progressbar95 is a hyper-casual game that is steeped in nostalgia for anyone who grew up using PCs in the 90s. The gameplay is nice and simple with a ton of upgrades for your PC and operating system to unlock. You just launch it, click a button and start playing. You play the game in a simulated first-person view. There's not a lot of interaction from you - you click a button, buy stuff, and earn money. At the start of the game you are given a low budget PC that you upgrade over the course of the game to increase the performance and purchase a bunch of software. All of the upgrades are paid for using your money earned from playing. Progressbar95 also includes a series of mini-games as well as single player mode. About The Creator: I started Progressbar95 as a pet project to test my skills in game development. I set out to make a PC simulation, something I have always been interested in. The game was well received and is currently being used for educational purposes in a Chinese high school. Learn More: Friend me on Facebook - About this Game So my parents got me a old PC for Christmas (the only one in the house). I figured it'd be a good idea to get a new mouse and keyboard to go with it. I ended up buying a Logitech MX Revolution mouse and RivalKeyboard. I've been having fun playing around with it. This game doesn't work on my PC very well, because it's literally running on a 1980s platform. On my end it crashes about every 6 seconds. RivalBaseball is a super simple baseball game made in unity 3d. Play through the tournament with your friends over the internet or against the RivalRival AI. This will be fun for all skill levels. What's new:

Here's my take on this class in the 25th anniversary. Udo is part of the Goyg alliance whom the Cyberpunks opposes. He's a mercenary, allegedly adept at stealth and armed confrontation. His cybernetic body is scarred, evidence of his conquests in both terrestrial and cybernetic combat. He carries twin machine pistols, a double-edged katar and a man-portable, yet powerful, broadsword. IMAGE DETAILS Image size 1608x1200px 1.25 MB Show More Published : Feb 6, 2017Orchard Park, N.Y. – The Buffalo Bills will be without star running back LeSean McCoy for their Week 4 game against the New England Patriots at Gillette Stadium (7 p.m. ET; CBS). McCoy suffered an ankle injury in last Sunday's 19-17 win over the Miami Dolphins. Derek Anderson will start in McCoy's place, according to head coach Sean McDermott. Replacing McCoy will not be an easy task for Anderson or the Bills offense. The Patriots are currently allowing just 3.0 yards per carry, the worst in the NFL. The team has recovered a league-high 12 fumbles, including six in their last three games. Anderson is likely to face his toughest test yet on Sunday against a Patriots defense that has held opponents to a league-low 13.3 points per game. Editor's Note: Philadelphia Eagles nose tackle Isaac Sopoaga and running back LeSean McCoy were teammates for five seasons in Washington. In 2006, McCoy was named to the Pro Bowl for his work in the playoffs following the Eagles' Super Bowl XLII win over the New England Patriots. "I couldn't even imagine how scary that would be to play against [Patriots defensive tackle Vince Wilfork]," McCoy said. "He's such a physical presence and he's been here for so many years. It's just tough. You want to compete as hard as you can, but that's going to be tough. I kind of feel sorry for the two guys next to him, Jimmy [Claude] and Trey [[Gonther]. We've won a lot of games together – whether it was back in Washington or in Baltimore or even back in
