hey there, 1) if you have a valid license, it should be possible to get a support from faronics directly. 2) if you've lost your password and just want to change it, booting from any linux live cd/usb should be enough. iirc, deleting persi0.sys removes deepfreeze settings - but i will not give any guarantees or support for that, try at your own risk, 3) if you're putting in ssds and a new system on them, you're looking at a complete reinstall anyway, there is no need to disable deepfreeze for that, hello, i tried to update my existing version of the free anti-deep-freeze tool. i entered the serial number of my current version, but it didn't work. it says "invalid serial number" and it fails to update, is there a serial number that will work for the free version of the tool? please help me. thanks.. hey guys, i just downloaded and installed deep freeze 7.3 and ran it, when i tried to open the anti deep freeze program it gave me an error message saying that deep freeze needs to be reinstalled, this is my first time installing this so i'm not sure what to do or how to fix it, please help me., deep freeze comes with a free 7 day trial, and once it expires it will need to be purchased, it is a security and configuration management application that makes it easy for it admins to freeze their computer settings. you may want to set the 'restore to a previous configuration' option for your pc, or you may want to do a system restore, the deep freeze application should be ran on all computers that are connected to the network, you can find out if your deep freeze application is running or not by going to control panel > system and security > system to check if the deep freeze program is running or not. if the program is running, click on 'open a file location' to be taken to the configuration settings for your deep freeze application.
