The dynamic nature of football requires playmakers to make quick decisions and constantly adapt their game based on the circumstances of the match. This new motion capture technology provides players with tools to test their on-ball intelligence, anticipation, awareness, awareness of opposition defenders, decision-making and swift reactions using motion capture data collected in the highly authentic contexts of real matches. FIFA's proven gameplay engine will be tuned to handle the new motion capture gameplay dynamics, allowing players to make faster, more agile and unpredictable decisions. In addition to this, the new gameplay modes such as the NextGen draft, where young players are selected to play for the best of the best and a new Human Intelligence Technology (HIT) will bring the playmaker's options and movements to life in a way no player could previously do. For the very first time, your playmakers will be able to be dynamically changed during the game based on the football environment. Using the new motion capture technology allows players to experience the game from the height of the playmaker's line of sight, allowing them to anticipate and make more accurate decisions. The new tactical AI will adapt to the way that the player drives the game and the whole team responds dynamically in-game to the performance of each individual player. The new player sprinting abilities represent authentic sprints and sprinting patterns of real-life football players. As a result, players will be able to run at full speed without being penalised. Additionally, new FIFA 22 will allow players to complete stunning after the ball move using “dynamic lunge” actions, allowing them to quickly accelerate, turning the ball over and overpowering the player they are facing. FIFA 22 will also feature enhanced dribbling and shooting abilities, along with new ball physics and player movement physics. Ball physics in FIFA 22 will help to increase ball control, bring more finesse to the game as shots and shots on goal become sharper and more punishing, including the return of the “instant power” throw-ins. Ball physics will also allow players to more effectively dribble balls and release shots into more difficult positions. Player movement in the game has been re-engineered and enhanced to make players more agile, quicker and more acrobatic. Players will once again be able to run at full speed. Additionally, in FIFA 22, players will be able to perform cutting and sliding moves and turn the ball over with more finesse and

FIFA is the world's game. It's not about being realistic—we've established that you'll have to be an unreal hero to play football like Cristiano Ronaldo or Lionel Messi. It's about going above and beyond. The game isn't about how close you come to the real thing. It's about what you can achieve, how much fun you'll have and how you'll represent the game. The Editors The best player in the world isn't the best footballer in the game—only 2% are at their peak form—so how do we make it more enjoyable to be one? We work on the game's basic mechanics to enhance the players' skills, ball control and intelligence to ensure they're accurate and can keep up with players like Ronaldo, Messi and Neymar. Not only that, but we're always tweaking the engine and the playing styles so the next-gen consoles' new fidelity and mechanics are reflected in what you do on the field. If you're unsure of what FIFA is about, check out our video above to see what we mean. FIFA's Pitch Engine Football, like all sports, is a footballing engine—and we've built a great one for FIFA. We benchmark the physics of the game, figure out what makes each play unique, and then determine where that can be improved. Every aspect of the game is made to give you the most accurate play possible and keep pace with the next generation of console hardware. Realism We've got a number of ways of making the game more real. Light Reflect the right type of light for each area of the pitch and the intensity of the sun, depending on your viewing angle. Rubber Touch The new LSS algorithm gives you the tactile awareness you're looking for. Icons Throughout the game you'll see the faces of the characters in all their glory. Drinks FIFA is the only football game to have created the world's best bottle, the Dr. Kruger beer. Animated Ball The new physics engine makes the ball more lifelike. Weather Football is played in all seasons, but sometimes it is most enjoyable to play when the weather is perfect. FIFA 22 brings a number of other enhancements to the game, including: New Cameras We've had a season and a half bc9d6d6daa
