– It features the periodic table of elements – It provides colorful, easy-to-read information on each element – This is a fun way to learn about the elementsØstmarka Østmarka is a region and former municipality in Akershus county, Norway. It was merged into Asker and Bærum Municipality on 1 January 2007. Name The municipality (originally the parish) was named after the old farm (Old Norse: Østmærkir), since the first church was built there. The name is probably a combination of Øst and mark, since it is adjacent to the Østmarka farm. The meaning of Øst is "east" while mark means "meadow" or "pasture". Coat of arms The coat of arms is from modern times; they were granted on 20 January 1981. The coat of arms is a symbol of the former union with one another municipality Ås. The silver background represents the dark soil of the plains, while the white background represents the darker mountains and forests. The anchor symbolizes the industry of wool, and the three supports represent the river Øvre Kjøl.
