What's New in the WriteItNow?

WriteItNow is the ultimate writing tool that allows writers to organize their writing process. We created it for writers who feel that traditional tools don't let them focus on their writing. Writer's Tools and Process At any time, writers can access and use these tools and create their writing process: A story board that allows them to better manage their ideas and work on their novel. A word counter that enables them to accurately count the amount of words they've written. A global search and replace function that enables them to easily replace any missing or erroneous words with the appropriate ones. A dictionary that allows them to find the most suitable terms, as well as their synonyms, antonyms, derivations and morphological forms. A spellchecker that corrects their errors, such as misspelled words, contractions and omissions. A random character generator that will create a character based on their name, age and gender. And more: And we've packed a lot of advanced features into our application. You'll find more about these tools and their applications under "Tools for Writers". Organized Writer's Process Writers can create an outline, a character list, determine the most suitable number of scenes or chapters, choose a story location, add a timeline, and more.
