In this article, develop and apply system simulation communications, as well as a special modeling tool - Ansoft Serenade. The article describes the requirements for the project and its development, the use of the modeling tool, testing, identifying problems and fixing them, as well as test results. The Ansoft Serenade simulator is used to simulate the communication system. Data on channel capacity, signal delay time and signal sampling frequency were chosen as initial data in this project.

It took 6 hours to model the communication system. 0946cee1be
