Description of the Related Art One of image recording methods is drawing an image on a screen using an image recording system such as a CRT, a LCD and a thermal head. For example, Japanese Unexamined Patent Application Publication No. 63-207693 describes a method using a thermal head. FIG. 7A illustrates an arrangement of a screen device described in Japanese Unexamined Patent Application Publication No. 63-207693. In FIG. 7A, a screen 100 has a frame 101 and a sheet 102 that can be pasted on the frame 101. A pressure foil 103 is attached to a back surface of the screen 100 at each corner section of the screen 100. A thermal head 105 and a platen roller 104 constitute an image recording system. FIG. 7B illustrates a screen device 120 as described in Japanese Unexamined Patent Application Publication No. 9-311837. The screen device 120 has a screen 121 and an ink discharge unit 122. The ink discharge unit 122 is provided on a back surface of the screen 121. A heat-sensitive sheet is applied on the back surface of the screen 121, which is used as a recording medium. An ink ribbon is bonded to the heat-sensitive sheet. The ink ribbon is fed through a side section of the ink discharge unit 122. Japanese Unexamined Patent Application Publication No. 9-311837 also describes a screen device having a frame and a film containing an adhesive applied on the frame. The frame has a shape of a hanger and can be fixed on a wall. In the screen device 120 described in Japanese Unexamined Patent Application Publication No. 9-311837, the ink ribbon is relatively long, so that the ink ribbon is easily moved. In the screen device 120 described in Japanese Unexamined Patent Application Publication No. 9-311837, the ink ribbon is fed through a side section of the ink discharge unit 122, so that a long distance is required between the ink ribbon and the thermal head 105. Therefore, a reaction time of the ink ribbon becomes long, so that the ink ribbon is not heated well. If the ink ribbon is not heated well, the ink is not clearly printed on the recording
