Daito-kun, get ready for another RPG experience that is different from this point on! Like previous games in the series, the battle system is very simple and easy to understand, allowing you to understand what is happening in the battle quickly. The music also has a heavy presence during battle, creating a strong sense of urgency. The graphics are also beautiful. Each character has a unique design, and the background design is full of excitement. The enemies also have an overwhelming sense of hostility, and the movement of the animation is impressive. If you have the opportunity to try the first game, you will be able to tell that this game is more difficult than the previous game, so beware! The game also has many items that will be appreciated in the battles, such as a variety of different weapons and armor. You can also equip items that increase the effects of the various elements, giving the appearance of having many options to choose from! In the past, if you wanted to have a party, you had to work hard to prepare a team, but in this game, you can just use the party by paying money. In addition, by continuously fighting together you can also gain EXP and items, allowing you to increase your level faster. There are also high-level party members who are helpful with various situations. Even though there are only two characters, I really enjoyed playing this game!
