Just in case you forgot what the two titles of the latest Photoshop releases are called, Adobe has confirmed the version numbers of both the market-leading Photoshop and Elements versions for this year, which you can check out here . The version numbers for Photoshop CS2021 are 20, and the version numbers for Photoshop CS2022 are 21. In the past, when selecting whether to use Lightroom or Photoshop for organizing work, one of the most common issues many beginners had was what to do with their RAW files. With Photoshop Elements 16, tasks like these are easier thanks to new additions like the Smart Source Selection, which allows you to specify a particular source including your camera or lens, and automatically recognizes it. In addition, you can jump straight to the tabs of the menu you want in Photoshop by selecting them in the new Favorites tab. Adobe has showcased several updates to the Content-Aware Fill tool, including a dynamic preview that allows you to quickly evaluate the strength of your fill to enhance an image before you commit. An improved version of the Content-Aware Patch tool, one that intelligently fills holes in areas without sharp features, also was included in the update. Overall, with tools like Content-Aware Fill, better fills will require less effort on your part to produce cleaner results. Lastly, Adobe has divulged one of the biggest new features for Photoshop this year: "Smart Adjustment". It automatically corrects the dynamic range of the image, brightens dark areas and makes midtones appear more vivid. It does all this without any editing required on your part.
