How would you feel if your unit was infiltrated by an organized anarchist communist group? This is exactly how PFC Bob Denison felt in 1967 when a group of Third World Students took over his basic training. Bob was horrified by the scenes that followed and vowed he'd never become an officer again. As we all know, it wasn't easy for Corporal Bob to completely sever his ties with the Navy. Luckily, Bob is a patient man. He had the foresight to design the former Navy Chapel (more on that in a later episode) and he's been doing his best to make sure that veterans have a great place to go to think and pray. Tommy H. shares his vision for where PFC Denison is heading. WHY MAKING THE TRIP HERE "I would like to thank Jim and Cynthia for offering us a tour of the Chapel, and for agreeing to share their story with us. I am honored to have been a part of the Chapel for the past few years. It is a significant piece of land which has been used as a military installation for more than five hundred years. The Chapel is my favorite little piece of real estate that I have never felt the need to sell. It has a rich history which deserves to be shared with the public. It is my hope that we can provide some small portion of that history to all those who enter it, as well as help keep it safe as a public building." The Chapel is a gorgeous example of interwar Tudor Revival architecture. During its original construction it was conceived as a temporary Church of the Holy Trinity. The building was first opened in 1941 to provide a place of worship to 3
