Learn Chinese Language In Urdu Pdf !FREE! Download

the chinese alphabet has five groups of characters, which have different tones in cantonese, although you can learn to read and write it with only one tone in mandarin. to facilitate pronunciation, you can pronounce the first group ( ㄅㄆㄇ ) of characters in the tones corresponding to the mandarin group, and the second group ( ㄏㄏㄏ ) in the tones corresponding to the cantonese group. the third group ( ㄏㄏㄏ ) is pronounced in the cantonese tone, and the fourth group ( ㄏㄏㄏ ) in the mandarin tone. the tones of the chinese alphabet are distinct from the tones of the chinese language itself, and this is why you need to practice reading chinese texts aloud with these tones and not just ordinary tones. because the chinese language consists of thousands of characters, the second method is the quickest way to learn, and you can use it to get a feel for the chinese alphabet. while learning, you will soon find that you will need to write the characters. by writing out each character that you learn, you will be building a systematic knowledge of the chinese alphabet. as you develop your writing skills, you will find that you are using fewer and fewer characters to write out new words and sentences. for each of these characters, you must practice writing, reading, and speaking. these three basic elements are the three legs of the learning tripod. once they are practiced, the characters will begin to appear without conscious thought. you will naturally start to recognize the character and know how to read and write it. if you learn to write chinese well, you can read chinese to learn to speak chinese. learning chinese is a never-ending cycle!
