More specifically, the present invention relates to a cooling system for a compressor for an air conditioner used in a vehicle. Japanese Unexamined Patent Publication No. HEI-5-266930 teaches a compressor that has a partition plate, a head plate, and a rotor. The partition plate is joined to the upper surface of the head plate to divide the interior space of the compressor into a suction chamber on the upstream side of a rotor and a compression chamber on the downstream side of the rotor. The rotor is made of a magnetic material. The rotor and the head plate are disposed in a manner that permits relative rotation of these components. The head plate is provided with a suction port and a discharge port. The suction port is disposed in the vicinity of the partition plate and is connected to a suction passage that is in communication with the suction chamber. The discharge port is disposed in the vicinity of the partition plate and is connected to a discharge passage that is in communication with the compression chamber. The suction port of the head plate is sealed by a valve plate. The discharge port is sealed by a valve plate. The rotor has on the outer circumferential surface thereof a series of groove-like vane grooves and is rotatably supported on the head plate by a plurality of rollers. A driving device is provided in the head plate
